Narrative:

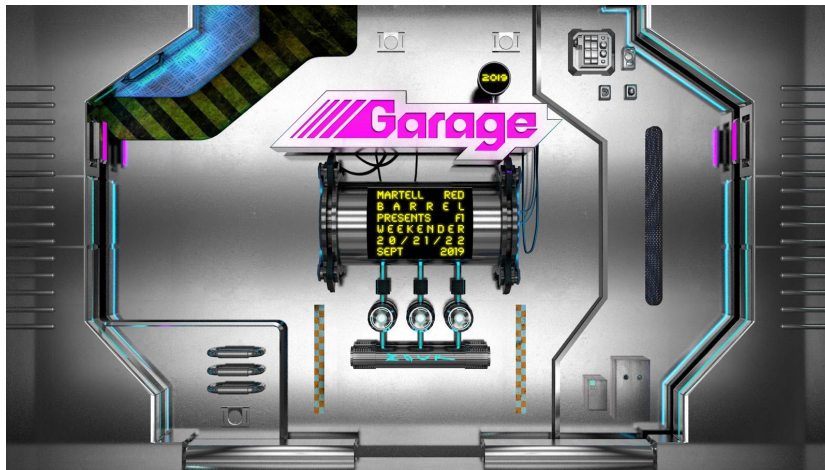

Through all the hiccups, crashes and an ever-present background screeching noise, congratulations for making it back to year 3028, and welcome home to Garage. The remaining haven for all punks, solo drivers and aspiring cyborgs alike.

This is what happens when science fiction meets urban theory, and for being the final destination after the finishing line. Think mega restoration zones, grooving musical junkies, dreamy yet vaporous, with beams of blinding lasers and neon lights to explore shrunken cyber cityscape replicas from digital wasteland. So strap in, lights on and listen as the engines roar.
